

It starts quietly. A tedious task here.
A repetitive manual process there...

3:14 PM

copy...

paste...

repeat...

I just need to copy these 200 shipment dates from the PDF into Excel...

...until "busywork" takes on a life of its own. They are the Time Zombies. They don't want your brains—they want your hours.

Forget your notifications.

Forget your weekend... manual entry...

I've been on this invoice mismatch for three hours...

Every day, they steal the focus, the creativity, and the time of the people who keep the business running.

4:45 PM

Our team is drowning in administrative backlog... we're just surviving.

But the company's knowledge isn't dead. It's the ultimate weapon. Captured, refined, and ready to fight back.

Knowledge systems online. Playbooks loaded. Let's get their time back.

MAX arrives—not to replace the team, but to vanish the drudgery.

I've analyzed the patterns and drafted the solutions. Clear the line!

Max analyzes and recommends. Humans approve. The zombies are vanquished, and the day is saved.

5:00 PM

Approved! Let's get home on time tonight.

STOP FIGHTING THE UNDEAD. SAVE YOUR TIME WITH MAX_PRODUCTIVITY.